This week

Dear Parents/Carers and Children,
This week we had a lovely time making Chinese drums. Although this is not part of our general topic we thought it would be interesting to link Chinese New Year into our English work. We read and followed some instructions, learning that it is important instructions are written in the right order or you end product will not turn out right! We went on to write our own instructions later in the week. Also this week we finished our model houses and had a go at writing instructions about how to make a model house (just in case anyone at home would like to make one). In Science we tried to change materials by squashing, twisting, bending and stretching them. We had some interesting results !
