This week

Dear parents/carers and children,

Both Mr Monks and myself have been really pleased this week with the maths work that has been happening. The year 5 and 6 pupils have been pushing on with their work on multiplying by 2 digit numbers while my group have been doing some super mass and capacity work- on Wednesday they did some super practical work measuring capacity in an outdoor challenge (see photos overleaf).

We finally completed our Victorian portraits this week which look good- they will be up on display with the Victorian photos all the pupils posed for during our history lesson.

Our football PE session was thwarted by the rain and so we ended up doing some table tennis skills inside which was fun. In history and computing, the pupils have been making their own film documentaries about Victorian working children.

Have a good weekend and see you all for the last week of the half-term!
